

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

Novel putters, and related methods, by which beginning, intermediate and advanced golfers are trained, retrained, corrected and improved in their respective putting skills in the game of golf are disclosed. The putters each comprise a light reflecting member by which the image of a golf ball is reflected to the eyes of the golfer for better alignment of the putterhead in relation to the golf ball before and during a putt.